From the Watelman Pediator THE CHRISTIAN PARADOX. oWhat I would, that do I mu; but what I have that I do

How stronge this life of mine ! And yet not strange; for in the range Of vision wide, an every side. All lives alike I find, And yet not all, nor two: But all alike in this, I was -That "what I would that do I not : lint what I hate, that do.

Here, half misunders used, Each word that's thought, each deed that's wronge Each written line, each look of mine Scens ill, where meant for good, Not only ill to view

Of others; bet with ill is trangut, But what I would that do I not; But what I hate that do,"

Alld can it, must it be-Thu, while I strive in poten to live With all rearking, I yet should find Myself man's enemy? Ah! is it, is it so, That life to me brings such a for Because 'I do what I would not;

But what I have that do ?" That when the world his due I seek to give, and to receive, I should offend my detrest friend : Alas! Alas! how true! And thus, life's drain, through, Each scene unrayels this sad plot—

Then "what I would, then do I not : But what I hate that do. But there's a life above ; A life of light; where cloud rear oright Doth cast its gloom; and where no record Is found for anyth but have.

Where, with its blackened Inje. Foul sin no more life's page doth blot Nor "what I would that its I not; But hate that a bat Igdo,"

THE CEERGYMAN AND THE BURG-LAR.

The world of fiction larrely contains a more thrilling chapter than an incident which marked the life of the Rev. Mr. Lee, who was recently cut down in his prime while pastor of the Presbyterian church in the village of Waterford, N. Y. The adventure, says the Troy Trans, occurred on the night before Thanksgiv-ing, a few weeks previous to the commencement of the sudden illness, which resulted sadiv and Mr. Lee was sitting in his study about course to be delivered to his congregation when assembled for Thanksgiving worship, when he heard a noise behind him, and became conscious that somebody was in the room. Supposing that a neighbor had dropped in upon some unforcen orand, Mr. Lee said: "What is the nexture?" and turned around in his chair. He beheld the grim face of a burglar, who was pointing a pistol at his breast. The ruffiam had entered the house by a side with the said.

win low, supposing that all the occupants were wropped in stomber, and burst upon the presence of Mr. Lee before he was aware, that the study contained an agement.

"Give me your watch and money," said be "and make no noise, or I will fire." Mr. Lee said :

"You may as well put down your weapon, for I shall make no resistance, and you are at liberty to take all the valuables I possess."

The hurglar withdraw his menacing pistol and Mr. Lee said: "I will conduct you to the place where my most precious treasures are placed." He opened a door and pointed to the cot where his two children by slumbering in the sweet sleep of innocence and peace. "These," said by sure my choicest jewels. Will you take them?" He proceeded to say that as a minister of the Gospel he had few earthly possessions, and that all his means were devoted to but one object—the education of the two children that were reposing in the adjoining room. The burglar was deeply and visibly affected by these remarks. Tears filled his eyes, and he expresed the utmost sorrow at the act which he had been about to commit. After a few remarks tears tilled his eyes, and he expressed the ut most sorrow at the act which he had been about to commit. After a few remarks from Mr. Lee, the would-be criminal consented to kneel and join with him in prayer; and e, in that burely house, and the silence of midnight, the offender poared forth his penitence and remorse, while the representative of a religion of peace and good will told him to "go and sin no more". Such a scene has lew parallels. On the conclusion of the prayer the Jurglan attempted to take his departure by the broken window through which he had entered. "Why not go by the front, door?" said Mr

Lee.
The man replied:

"There are confederates there who would shoot either you or me? He desired Mr. Lee to take an eath on the Holy Scriptures never to take an evaluent the Holy Scriptures never to reveal the particulars of this singular interview. Mr. Lee said it was numerossary, as he had the kin lest feelings to wards him, and should never divulge aught he had seen or heard. The next day Mr. Lee, while walking with his wife, net the man in the streets of Waterfood, and on subsequent occasions any line from time to time.

One of the actors in this singular enjoyde fills an early grave; but by means that we are not at liberty to discloss, the event did not die with him. What must be the feelings of the other party to this mysterious meeting, whenother party to this mysterious meeting, when ever he reflects upon the lonely parsonness and the BEINSIDE COAL. SOUTHERN INDEPENDENCE, IS TER PETUAL DISCORD.

The disastrous consequences of a division this Union, and the establishment of a Southen Confederacy, are about self-evident, yet it can be of no harm to any loyal mind or heart, to dwell upon these, and give them "a local habitation and a name," in order that at any monicut we may be furnished with the proper arguments to convince the world that it can never be, until we are prepared to ferfeit our existence as a Nation. The facts which we set forth, even though they may be patent to many, yet, will bear to be held up for the serione consideration of all men and peoples. It raight as well be understood now, and proclaimed to the world, that all, including the rebels, may know that we of the North, East and West, are fully convinced, unanimously convinced-copperheads excepted-that division and destruction-the establishment of the Southern Confederacy and the ultimate both, are one and the same thing-identicalstill clearer by stating in a condensed form some jurther views from the book of Mr. Stille.

The four great pillars which support Northcon prosperity, he very truly gives as First-The free navigation of Rivers.

Second-The security of our foreign con-Third-Unrestricted island communication and intercourse, and Fourth-Safety against foreign invasion.

Now who can read over these four important litems in our National prosperity, without reeling that they do constitute the very pillars of the fabric of our Nationality-that these cannot, nor either of them, be perilled without i-manifizing all-our existence even, as well as long after our territory should become divided in the occupancy of two separate and independent interfere with her floating. Nations, would either of the above sources of our wealth and prosperity remain! Who, but

But grant for the sake of the argument, that we could divide and exist as separate and independent governments what would be the first i-e would be that by consenting to such a divition, we had entailed upon ourselves and post of his limbs and feet. The tendon Achillis w termy so long as our two existences embreed, blondy warfare—a disputed and exposed boun- of tholeg, split. They have been replaced and dary line. It is of no consequence in our argament, where the boundary line is now, or what it may be. Pass through territorially wherever it may, or be it a river or imaginary The it must be of at least, an extent of fifteen landred miles, as our author remarks. Now one thing is evident that two antions estab-Bished on the different sides of such a boundary, and having feelings of hostility and a thousand sources of irritation would be compelled to ostablish fortresses along this whole yast line.

Among the sources of irritiation Mr. Stille properly gives a preminence to the following :

of good will to exist between them. It is the prepared of divided remailing; it is the explanation following herrible set of fiendish cruelty we see at the unrelenting haired between those who were glad to say is not an American. A LEAF FROM THE HISTORY OF TO-DAY. The Rev. M. D. Conway of Concord, N. R., as will be seen by our advertising columns, is to deliver a lecture in Aquiducck Hall on Monday evening next, with the caption of this article for his subject, Recently, he has delivered this fecture in a large number of cities and towns, in several of the different States, and always as we learn from exchanges, to crowded houses, and most enthusiastic listeners. If we can judge from the uniform testimony of the Journals of the day, and of those who have been so fortunate as to listen to the reverend gentleman's choquence, ho is remarkable for his great offerings of Important truth, and stirring delivery.

Says a correspondent to a Boston paper, haps it may be said, without qualification, that this lecture is one of deeper interest and practical power than any we have heard, from this most aceeptable laborer in the field of progress and human rights. He carries the audience step by step to the narration of what transpired in bringing come thirty of his lather's claves to the home of freedont. Some of the incidents are truly touching." Again," we shall ever count the hour spent in listening to this-"less' from the history of To day"—as among the most profitable and refresh ing of our life. And no better work can be done to extend and deepen the love of freedom for all, min of the United States, North and South than a repetition in every town in New England of this interesting and profitable feeture." We be-From mons. Let us endeavor to make this lieve, that, as warm and enthusiastic as is this Captain. There are still live companies without British Minister at the Danish Court, Mr. August praise, for once, such an article falls below the reality. And we have only to say, that all who miss of hearing this address, will miss of hearing what they have very few apportunities of bearing-a delivery of important truths, with imposfuned cloquence.

THE SCHOOLSE CARTHAGESTA RShore Hear Bren ton's reef, has been chaost entirely lightened of her cargo of oil and cordage. The steamer Perry rent to her this morning at one o'clock, but did not succeed in fastening to her until the tidehad began to abb and after parting the halser, concluded to give it up as a bad job. A crew will be sent out to her to day to lighten her still more by taking out her chains and anchors. A steam tug has been sent for, and if the weather continues as tororable as now she will be got off within the our prosperity! Not one. And yet, how next twenty-four hours. We are near the landing where numerous satler's have good assortments, which are sold at fair So that had the army been paid off there would be no exuse of complaint.

Another muster has past and yet no paymoster has appeared, and the families of our brave men must still continue to suffer for the means to buy the necessaries of life. I heard or one sad consequenca of this delay. When a mother with five children were turned into the street by their con-Siderate (1) lendlord for the non-payment of their rent; the father was in the army. How long shall this state of things continue? What reason is there for not paying the army as punctually as the may ? In the payy, officers and men are paid the first of every menth in full, while the army is kept two, four six and eight months without being paid The money has been appropriated; whose fault is it that it is not distributed ?

Be patient landlords and storekeepers with you sustomers, whose dependence is upon the army being paid off; it is not their fault you do not get your dues, they will be met when the green backs

There has been some changes in the 7th Regi nent. Gerlate Lieut.-Col. Church having beer promoted to be a Colonel, and assigned to the 11th Reg., R. I. V.,; 2d Lient. E. A. Jeneks to be Implains - being under charge of Lieutenauts.

I visited Norfolk last week, enjoying a delight ful sail up the Elizabeth River in the superbly fitted steamer City of Hudson, which makes two trips a day. I noticed considerable activity in the streets; many stores being well supplied with goods, and the market with country produce; the iver was full of oyster boats, whose crews were rapidly loading loading them with the delicious bivalves. We passed Sewall's Point and Crany Island, the place where the old Merrimae lies sunk - marked by a white flag, the United States Matine Hospital so delightfally situated, and through the spiles which the rebels phaced across the river andra. to obstruct the free navigation, and approach to Nortalk and the navy-yard. I teamed see why a mayy-yeard was built so far inland as the Gosport. as the moving of vessels to and fro must always lany idea of when out where we are going from this point.

Marriage of the Prince of Wales,-Tuesday last, March 10, was the day assigned for the near riage of Prince Albert Edward to the Princess Mexandra of Dennintk, and the occasion was no fieed in Hoston by a great display of flags on the Canard steamer and the shipping in port.

The Transcript says that several thousand mar riages would take place in Great Britain on that day, many of his countrymen having determined to be united in wedleck on the same date as the heir apparent to the British throne.

The marrisge of the Prince occurred at 6.20 A M., our time. It, no doubt, was a great gathering of the English cability, with representatives of the "upper dasses" from the continent. The bride, the Princess Alexandra, - was attended on her Journey from Copenhagen to England by the tus Paget. On her way she was escorted through the different countries by the representatives of Great Britain from their respective capitals.

The arrival of the stotilla conveying Princes: Mexandra and suite at the Nore was made the or easion of a gaind naval display., The commitproviding for the reception of the Prince and Princess in London, made immense preparations. Seats were erected in-life the railings of St. Paul's Cathedral for the accommodation of 2000 citizens. At a meeting of the London Common Council, £10,000 was voted for a present to Princess Alex

The London Times, in its account of the prep eration for the welding reremony, says:---

Arrangements in the interior of the Chapel Lyal at Wind-or eastle—are asole to—give sitting accommodation for 769—distinguished—visitors—to accommodation for 703 of diagnificat victors to be invited at the marriage ceremony. About 50 more will stand in procession during the marriage, and these with 100 choristers, 50 masted perform-ers, and 50 collects and attendants—1,600 in all— are the very most who can stand in the chapel, for there is literally, even with the crowding re-sorted to on the last execution in the little Chapel orted to on the fact excision in the inthe Chaper layer at St. Junes's, no room for any more.

Along the nave from its west door, between the all, slender columns using 'high overarched, with chaing walks belowen,' blocks of seats muc deep the state of the chains and the perfutegion. to witness the bridal procession into but who cannot be recommutated within the smaller space beyond the serven where the cer-many itself is to take place. There will be 608 stron of the rebels again, as at Tredericksburg,—
My opinion is that if we had destroyed the city when we had driven out the pebels, we should now be in possession of still stronger points, and not as now sea the rebels occupying their city which was ours. This saving policy and not destroying, for their adventage not ours.
